“ Jodie, my first closest best friend and my soul sister. We have screamed with laughter together and cried. There are so many memories from getting our matching tattoos together, I accidentally wore granny pants and the tattooist took the mickey and you moved making your petal wonky. We only chose the flower design as we were so frightened and chose the smallest! Ha! We have spent New Years together down town in Newbury, telling everyone we pulled loads and made loads of friends, then the Newbury weekly news published the clock tower pic and me and you were stood alone haha! We really were Kevin and Perry. We had so much fun! I have all your letters we wrote and I hold them close. Jodie was my strength as I went through a hard time. I'm devastated you were called home early and I'm looking you straight up when I get there. Thank you for being you. I love you xxx

“ I'm am blessed to have met Jodie He at Gordmans when I worked there. Later I met her Mom and sisters. I had just begun traveling and England was my first Country to explore. I got some insight into the cities I traveled to from her. We loved stopping in to say hi and get a burger at Kapps when she was working... Your light will will always shine bright blessed to have met her...
