“ We will certainly miss seeing John, sitting with Doris, up in the front of the church, every possibly Sunday morning. He was almost always the first person we shook hands with during the greeting, and always had a big smile. Doris, and John's family, you have our sincere sympathy.

“ When I told my daughter, Lauren, who has lived out-of-state most of the last several years that one of our parishioners had just died, she asked who it was. Not expecting her to remember him, I said, "John Moore." She replied, "Oh, I remember him. He was always so kind."
